

Bea Gerber

Partner

Bringing people and companies together is much more than simply mediating. Her own experience with start-ups and years of employment in large corporations puts her in a great expert position.

Bea Gerber studied business administration and over the years has been certified in the areas of coaching, process and project management, work and organizational psychology as well as sustainability. In order to keep her finger on the pulse of learners, she has also taken on the fulfilling role of lecturer at the HWZ in Zurich since 2020.

Her professional career in the financial industry and pharmaceuticals has given her a wealth of experience in various roles and divisions, as well as in many countries. Her curiosity, which always spurs her on to keep moving forward, also helps her to participate in the trends and challenges of companies. Through her diverse activities in the financial sector, Bea not only brings a huge network, but also experienced knowledge in innovative and digital topics.

In her private life, Bea is a sports enthusiast, enjoys reading and only last year discovered the beauty of playing the saxophone - her ultimate goal is to be able to play the Pink Panther.
